

ABSTRACT OF THE DISCLOSURE

In an electronic camera, an image file can be erased and when the image file is erased, a notifying state is changed in accordance with the data attached to an image. In the electronic camera, the data attached to the image indicates whether the image file has been transferred from a storing area where the image is stored at present to another storing area or not.